alvin

Alvin has for 9 years enjoyed designing and implementing a wide range of projects in private practice. His previous experience includes high profile politically sensitive projects such as a civic square in Kent, urban design strategies for north London, innovative inner city parks and play areas, and the development of school grounds. Alvin is directly responsible for attending to the client's needs, project management within budget and programme parameters, community engagement, taking a project through all stages of the design process and contract administration.
